CGPWA celebrates Constitution Day

Members of Central Govt Pensioners Welfare Association J&K, taking oath to uphold the Constitution of India at Jammu on Thursday.

GJ REPORT
JAMMU, NOV 26: The Central Govt Pensioners Welfare Association J&K, Jammu today celebrated the 72nd National Constitutional Day. At Day Care Centre, Exhibition Ground here, President S S Wazir, General Secretary J K Vaid and other members read out the Preamble of the Constitution of India. One of the members, K B Jandial spoke on the making of the Constitution, its salient features and implementation. He said the wording of the Preamble reflects the philosophy, aims & objects of the Constitution which originally with 395 Articles & eight Schedules explained in 1.45 lakh words is the lengthiest & voluminous Constitution of the world. The wording "We the people... give to ourselves the Constitution" clearly stated the people of India are the real sovereign.

With clear division of power between Parliament, Executive & Judiciary, the Constitution has steered the country from all challenges in the last seven decades when the countries in the neighborhood have collapsed many a times.
